

February 2017

We at Trinity Equestrian Center are celebrating our 15th year of serving at-risk, underprivileged and special needs youth, families and Veterans. It's been a privilege to serving you and your clients and look forward to many more years of collaboration.

Our focus over the years has been to provide services that meet the needs of both Workers and clients, match therapeutic challenges with innovative and client-focused programs and always keep an eye on what's next? What needs exist that are not being met yet.

After asking that very question of many Workers, spanning multiple counties, we've heard three primary needs on their program wish list. They are; 1) a guided opportunity for your youth clients to "practice friendships" and grow their social skills in group settings, 2) an opportunity for them to realize unexplored skills and talents for art, music, being creative and more, and finally, 3) to be more physically active, gaining an appreciation and even an appetite for it.
