

Horses Building Teams

Live it, Learn it...Let it change you !

A Team

If your definition of "teamwork" is having a common goal and pursuing it relentlessly through mutual support, trust and clear communication, then a herd of horses may be nature's perfect team and one that we can learn much from.

The human-horse relationship provides countless lessons and makes clear the fundamental dynamics of trust in all relationships. Through Equine Assisted Team Development (EATD) you will realize and retain improved communication and problem solving techniques as well as increased self-awareness, empowerment and self-confidence. There is much to be gained through the simplicity and enchantment of getting to know a horse.

In this workshop you'll interact with our human and horse "team" in order to experience - not just talk about - the essence of what it takes to be a successful team. You'll have an opportunity to examine the "team" culture in your organization and will leave with an action plan to assist your team in realizing its potential.

Who is this Team Building Training for?

Teachers, medical professionals, corporate professionals, small and large business people, government officials, administrators, any type of team leaders.

How Long and How Much is the Workshop?

Every EATD workshop is custom designed to meet individual and organizational needs. The training is offered in a half (8AM to 12PM) or full day (9AM to 5PM) format. Full day events include a light lunch. Due to the customized nature of each workshop and the multiple variations, please contact us for pricing and details. Thank you.
